VINEYARD

Different climate zones are used to ensure a wide selection of quality grapes. Firstly, the south-easterly slopes on the Tygerberg Hills, Durbanville and the south-westerly slopes of Devon Valley, Stellenbosch are both characterized with high clay content soils resulting in excellent water retention. The cool breeze from the cold Atlantic Ocean also ensures healthy grapes. The northern facing slope on the Helderberg basin in the Somerset West region ensures excellent sun exposure and fertile soil to enable stable growing conditions.

VINIFICATION

Harvesting is done by hand & machine. Advantage of the machine is that harvesting can be done at night when the grapes are cooler and the result thereof is better quality. The juice is carbonated with minimal intervention in the natural process of vinification, allowing both the cultivar and the soil to express the terroir of their origins.
